Put Up a Fight for Rhode Island Kids

Early Childhood Education Makes a Difference for Rhode Island

Scientific studies have proven the human brain develops most rapidly between birth and age 5, but almost all the money Rhode Island invests in education occurs after kindergarten. Governor Raimondo has been working hard to change that by investing in high-quality early childhood education programs.

As a mom, Gina Raimondo knows how important a good education is to ensure our kids' success. That's why she set up universal full-day kindergarten, increased access to public pre-K by tripling enrollment for our youngest learners, and signed into law the largest increase in a decade in child care assistance funding.

Vote for Gina Raimondo for Governor to keep the champion our kids need in Providence.
